To Whom It May Concern:

As State Senator for the 40th District and Chair of the California Senate Committee on Energy, Utilities and Communications, I am pleased to write in support of Energy Performance International (EPI) and commend their efforts to reduce conventional energy consumption and energy costs.

Since 2007, EPI has been in working on energy efficiency. They have invented a unique "Dual Coating Process" that reduces the load and improves the efficiency of air conditioning units. Both the State's Franchise Tax Board and the California Department of Transportation have tested EPI's "Dual Process" coating. The tests found that costs savings were achieved by both reducing the energy usage of their HVAC systems and by elongating the lifetime of their AC units by several years.

I am pleased that companies like EPI are doing business in California and working to improve the environment. Efforts like theirs will help us improve future energy use and assist businesses and agencies in reducing their energy consumption and meet long-term sustainability goals, all while helping us continue to be good stewards for the environment.

Sincerely,
